THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

THE NEW YEAR'S RECEPTION AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

Washington Belles Planning to Meet Mrs. Cleveland at all Hazards—Popularity of the President's Wife—What Mr. Randall Said Concerning the Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Arrangements are rapidly progressing at the White House for the New Year's reception, at which, of course, Mrs. Cleveland will be the central figure. While Col. Wilson will be likely to superintend the details of the reception, in point of fact the fair mistress of the mansion will supervise everything and decide all the delicate points of precedence and any other knotty problems that may arise. Though the fashion of making New Year's calls generally is on the wane in Washington, each succeeding year sees a greater crush at the White House receptions.

The great popularity of Mrs. Cleveland with all classes was never better illustrated than at the levee held last New Year's day, when the doors of the White House had to be closed, leaving a crowd on the concrete outside who were forced to go away disappointed. Mrs. Cleveland regretted the necessity for this action, but the engagements of herself and the ladies who received with her made it compulsory. Bearing this fact in mind, the young ladies of Washington, all of whom entertain the warmest admiration for Mrs. Cleveland, have descended like a cloud of locusts upon the senators and representatives of their acquaintance, with a demand that they shall escort them to the reception during the time reserved for the members of both houses.

Unable to resist the appeals which have been urged, a hundred promises have been made, the fulfillment of which will be demanded to the full letter.

A representative who has promised to introduce five charming young ladies during the fifteen minutes allotted to congress, said to-day: "I am sure I do not know how I am to keep my word, but I could not resist the appeals made to me. I think Mrs. Cleveland has bewitched all the girls in Washington."

Senator Hiscock's Sugar Tariff Views.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Senator Frank Hiscock, of New York, is taking quite an interest in the tariff question. In discussing the outlook a night or two since with a few well known Republicans, among them two or three representatives, Mr. Hiscock said in effect:

"All we have to do this session is to fix the sugar men, the sugar producers of the south, and give them a bounty. Take the customs tax off sugar and give a chance for competition and at the same time protect our home industries; then our hand will be clean and we have no complications. We can join issues between the senate and the house at once, taking up the gunnelt the president threw down in his message, and then we will win. The message was a bold, straightforward state paper, and serves the purpose of drawing the party lines in the most definite manner. It satisfies both parties except the protection wing of the Democracy. I am in favor of making war on these lines from this time forward, and believe the Republicans will come out victorious."

The question as to what will be done with the sugar tax is likely to cause no little friction in the ranks of the Republicans. Many of them favor the abolition of the tariff on this article of general consumption, and the substitution of a bounty to the cane growers of the south, as Senator Hiscock suggests. This seems to be the only available way to remove this tax and at the same time preserve the consistent policy of protection to American industries, which will be the strong plank in the party platform in the coming campaign.

There are, however, many Republicans who have grave doubts as to the constitutionality of any law under which a certain class of producers shall be paid bounties from the public treasury in order to foster the industries in which they are engaged. Those who held the contributions will strenuously oppose any bounty feature of the tariff bill, and the controversy developed will no doubt prove decidedly interesting.

Randall and the President Talk Tariff.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Last week, at the request of the president, it is said, Mr. Randall called at the White House. The subject of the conversation was the tariff, and the influence the proposed abolition of the internal revenue system would have on it. After the interview Mr. Randall said to a distinguished southern representative:

"A tariff bill will be introduced in the house that will not affect the industrial interests or disturb the business of the country. It will pass the house, and if it fails to become a law the responsibility will be with the Republican senate. It will provide for the repeal of the tobacco and the fruit-brandy tax. A bill, too, very much like the Henderson bill of the Forty-ninth congress, will pass the house. There is a misapprehension as to the president's position on the internal revenue question, and he may deem it necessary to send a supplemental message to congress on the subject. He does not oppose the repeal of the tobacco and brandy tax, and, furthermore, he believes that the internal revenue laws are oppressive as enforced under existing legislation."

Mr. Randall is now in Philadelphia, and will be in New York next Friday at the Manhattan club reception to the Democratic state officials.

Congressman Nelson.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Congressman Nelson, of Minnesota, in conversation with a reporter, said that he would decline a re-nomination to congress next year. Mr. Nelson's action on this subject is a purely voluntary one, as he represents a Scandinavian district, where he is immensely popular, and in which he could be returned as often as he desired. "My reasons," Mr. Nelson explained, "are wholly political. Although a Republican, I am a strong advocate of revenue reform. If my party should gain control of the house in 1890, as I believe they will, my tariff principles would operate to my disadvantage. Although I then should be serving my fourth term in congress, I could not hope to secure either a chairmanship, or even a good place, on an important committee. In short, I should be regarded as a sort of political black sheep, notwithstanding I should faithfully represent my constituents. You will see from this that whatever usefulness I possess would be immediately neutralized, and for this reason I have decided to close my political career with my present term."

standing I should faithfully represent my constituents. You will see from this that whatever usefulness I possess would be immediately neutralized, and for this reason I have decided to close my political career with my present term."

The President at Home.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—President Cleveland arrived in Washington early this morning. All the members of his cabinet, excepting Secretary Endicott, with him. The secretary of war and Col. Lamont remained over in New York city.

A Northwestern Blizzard.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Another snorting blizzard is sweeping over the western states and knocking down the temperature from the far northwest to St. Paul, Kansas City and eastward. The storm is severe in central and northern Kansas, with the thermometer at zero. Railroad travel is almost at a standstill. In Iowa the blizzard shook itself so vigorously last night as to stop the trains. Reports from Wisconsin are that snow has fallen heavily. So far no loss of life has been reported anywhere.

THE COAL OUTLOOK.

A Louisville View of the Present State of Affairs.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Dec. 29.—The question of a fuel supply in the Ohio valley is regarded by some as becoming a very serious one. The long continued drought and the probability of its continuance, with the small stocks of coal from Pittsburgh, the main source of supply, is causing much anxiety among those who failed earlier in the winter to make provision.

There is no probability, however, of a coal famine, such as has been experienced in the past, owing to the supply from the Kentucky mines. Louisville consumes daily, upon an average, 70,000 bushels. Ordinarily by far the larger portion of this is from Pittsburgh, but at present all of the dealers of the city together do not hold in stock more than 25,000 bushels of Pittsburgh coal, and it requires a ten foot rise in the river at Pittsburgh to let the awaiting fleet of 10,000,000 bushels out.

More than half of this will come to Louisville, but the probability of a rise in the Ohio is small, good authorities expressing the belief that a freeze-up will soon occur which will delay relief from Pittsburgh until some time in February. In the meantime the price of coal has advanced nearly 100 percent, and the poor are suffering correspondingly. During the past week the railroads have brought to the city daily an average of 40,000 bushels, and the managers say that this can be increased sufficiently to supply the demand.

Notwithstanding the statements of the railroad authorities, every coal dealer in the city is from four to seven days behind his orders. Scanning up the situation, it will be seen that the circumstances demonstrate Louisville's good fortune in having within 125 miles an inexhaustible supply of coal accessible to the railroads, and that the worst feature is the hardship to the poorer classes by the high prices which will probably go still higher, owing to the competition from Pittsburgh being shut off.

Senator Quay's Views.

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 29.—United States Senator Quay stopped over in this city for a few hours yesterday morning on his way to his home at Beaver, Pa. In answer to questions the senator said that no doubt something will be done on the tariff this winter. Personally he would prefer to see the tariff increased on all imports and the internal revenue tax taken off tobacco. He favored the government regulating the tolls of telegraph; thought Blaine would be the next Republican nominee for president, and regarding Mr. Lamar, said he would certainly vote against his confirmation.

Walking Match Score.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 29.—In the six days' heel-and-toe walking match, which began here at 9 o'clock Monday night, W. A. Hoagland broke the hundred mile six days record, making the distance in sixteen hours, fifty-six minutes, and coming within ten minutes of O'Leary's record in a hundred mile dash. The midnight score was as follows: Hoagland, 125 miles, five laps; Hart, 114 miles, eight laps; Messler, 112 miles, eight laps; Addy, 106 miles, two laps; Timmerman, 104 miles; Hoffman, 95 miles; Townsend, 90 miles; Ross, 91 miles, three laps; Miller, 80 miles, five laps.

Kansas Prohibitionists.

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 29.—The state convention of the Prohibition party, held in this city yesterday, was attended by Prohibitionists from all parts of the state. It was decided to begin a vigorous campaign during the coming year, and to put a full state ticket in the field. The principal addresses were made by ex-Governor St. John and Mrs. Hoffman, president of the Missouri W. C. T. U.

BOSTON, Dec. 29.—Rev. O. T. Gifford, the most prominent Baptist clergyman in New England, has come out as an advocate of the anti-poverty doctrine of Henry George. He will address the Anti-Poverty society at Horticultural hall next Sunday. The announcement causes quite a stir in religious circles.

Death of Judge Rapallo.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Judge Rapallo, of the court of appeals, died at 2 o'clock this afternoon at his residence, 17 West Thirty-first street. He had been ill for some time, and it was feared he would not recover, but to-day he seemed better than for some days previous, and death came unexpectedly.

STRANGER THAN FICTION.

THE LAST TESTAMENT OF A WEALTHY CANADIAN.

To the Only Woman He Ever Loved, but Who Would Not Marry Him, He Leaves a Fortune, Subject to the Most Romantic Conditions—The Property Bequeathed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 29.—One of the most eccentric and peculiar wills on record has come to light recently in Northern Michigan, and in spite of the most strenuous efforts at secrecy on the part of those intimately concerned, its contents have just come to light. Its provisions are so unique, and the circumstances connected with it so romantic, that it reads more like fiction than the reality which it is. These are the facts:

More than twenty years ago there lived in a certain city in southern Indiana a young girl more than ordinarily beautiful and gifted, in whose father's employ as bookkeeper was a handsome young Canadian-Frenchman, who, though occupying this humble position, was of excellent character and high culture, and was also an inmate of the household. Thus thrown together these two young people in time loved, and with the full consent of her parents were betrothed. Because of the maiden's youthfulness the marriage was deferred for a twain of years; but when a year of this time had passed away she waked up to the discovery that what she had mistaken for love was but admiration and affection and asked to be released from her bond.

After a stormy interview on the part of the lover, he released her, and a few years afterward she married happily and is still living in a certain town in her native state. The young Frenchman returned to Canada, and from thence went to northern Michigan and engaged in the lumber business in which he became very wealthy. He remained unmarried, true to his first love until his death, which occurred but a few weeks ago. When his will was brought to light it was found that after a number of snug bequests to various persons the bulk of his wealth was bequeathed to her to whom, in his young manhood, he had been betrothed; but following are the queer and eccentric conditions on which she becomes possessor of this vast wealth: "That she, my devisee, the only woman ever loved by me, shall remain in her present position with patience and with no change in her life or manner of living for the space of seven years—the time of Jacob's service for Rachel—she shall then remove to my native province and abide one year. "If at the end of these eight years she still lives, and shall have complied with the above provisions of this, my last will and testament, she shall then receive the hereinafter named bequests, to have and to hold and to minister unto herself therewith according to her will and pleasure."

The property thus bequeathed by this very strange document consists of moneys, bonds and real estate in Canada and Michigan, and is large enough to satisfy a much more craving mind than that possessed by the fortunate subject of this bequest. As she is known to be extremely generous and genial this large wealth will be the means of spreading happiness far and wide among her chosen friends.

There will be outtings of many kinds for these favored ones to places of interest in Europe and America; they will be charmingly entertained in the home, which will be perfect as to taste and ample time for planning can make it, aided by the wealth that will be hers at the time specified in this most peculiar will. Her husband will be a royal helper in all these plans, as he is in the architecture of the home, the model of which together they are evolving. This fortune means also very generous support and gifts to the church of which they are both enthusiastic members.

One of the queerest provisions of the will is that: "She shall within a year after my death select a lawyer who shall at once enter upon his duty as guardian of this bequest, and who shall be content to wait with her till seven years have passed, at the end of which time he shall receive the sum of $2,000 per year for his services, with an added $2,000 for interest and as a reward for his patience."

It is scarcely necessary to mention the fact that she will readily secure the lawyer, and it is believed by the one or two most intimate and confidential friends who know of this strange bequest, that her selection is already made, and that the fortunate "lamb of the law" will soon enter upon his duties, which will not be so arduous as to interfere in any way with his other law business. It is also said that the location of her home after she comes into possession of this great wealth is not yet decided upon, except that it will be in some town or city in her native "Hoosier" state.

Workman Barry in Trouble.

EAST SAGINAW, Mich., Dec. 29.—After the great mill strike in the Saginaw valley, a year or two ago, Thomas B. Barry, now a member of the general executive committee of the Knights of Labor, was a prominent figure among the striking mill hands. He was sued by William L. Webber for damages to the Hoyt estate, of which Webber is executor, by shutting down the mill, injuring the machinery, etc. Judgment for $250.18 was obtained in the circuit court against Barry, and affirmed by the supreme court. Barry has not paid the judgment and now it comes to the surface in the shape of a letter from Mr. Webber's attorney, saying that Barry must pay up or a body execution will be issued for him and he will be imprisoned. Barry's friends say he will not pay it. In addition to the judgment there is a bill of costs amounting to $107.30.

King Kalakua's Veto.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Advises received by steamer Mariposa, which arrived from Sidney and Auckland via Honolulu to-day, report that King Kalakua has vetoed two bills passed by the Hawaiian legislature, one of which was to abolish the office of governors. The legislature denies the right of the king to use the veto power, and claims that one of the specific pledges given by Kalakua at the time of the revolution provided that he should not interfere with legislation. The reform legislature had a lengthy meeting and resolved to ask the king to reconsider the veto. Advice from Thursday Island reports the capture of a schooner-rigged craft by the natives at Margaret bay and the murder of her crew.

TRAVELING MEN'S ASSOCIATION.

They Elect Officers and Vote on President's Salary.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—The thirteenth annual convention of the Northwestern Traveling Men's Association was held last evening. The address of the president showed the association to be in the most prosperous condition in its history. The election of officers resulted: President, J. C. Miller, Chicago; vice presidents, William H. Cribben, Chicago; Webb Hultz, Charlton, Iowa; F. E. Boswell, St. Paul; W. T. Mayhew, Janesville, Wis.; J. R. Heywood, St. Paul; A. W. Culver, Detroit, Mich.; Henry Hunkopf, Cincinnati; M. C. Wetmore, St. Louis; C. L. Knapp, Leavenworth, Kan.; H. H. Denn, Lincoln, Neb.; William Gamble, Pueblo, Col.; secretary and treasurer, Charles A. Hinman, Chicago.

There was a long discussion over the payment of salary to the president. It was finally decided to allow the association to vote at the end of the year whatever amount is decided upon, to the president; not to create a fixed salary.

Glad He Escaped Alive.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—J. C. Waller, his wife and two children who went from Burlington, Vt. to the Congo country to take part in Bishop Tyler's "self-supporting missionary" scheme, have returned and are in this city. Mr. Waller describes the enterprise as a complete failure and thinks he was lucky to escape alive. He says there is no chance for missionary work, as the struggle for existence occupies all the time of the unfortunate members of the colony. The climate breeds sickness, the soil is not productive and white men cannot endure the necessary labor. The mission is not well managed. Supplies are inadequate. The steamer which cost Americans so much money is lying a wreck on the banks of the river. Mr. Waller hopes that the missionary societies who supplied the funds for the expedition will investigate the truth of his statements.

Ohio's Inauguration Ceremonies.

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 29.—Elaborate preparations are being made for the inauguration of Governor J. B. Foraker here on Monday, January 9. The ceremonies will be the most imposing and impressive ever known here, including a reception and parade in which the entire Ohio National guard, including regiments of cavalry and artillery, and Republican clubs and civic organizations from all parts of the state and some from other states will take part. The railroads have made a passenger rate of one cent a mile from all points in Ohio for the occasion, and nearly every town in the state will be represented. Arrangements for comfort and convenience of visitors are being made by local committees.

Seven Murders and a Suicide.

MACON, Ga., Dec. 29.—The murder of seven people and the suicide of the murderer furnished Worth county, in southwest Georgia, with a sensation to-day. Nathan Reid, a negro, lived unhappily with his wife. Reid murdered his wife and six children last night and then fired the house, which was entirely destroyed, nearly cremating the corpses within it. After the crime Reid cut several gashes in his throat with a knife, but apparently finding this too painful a method of ending his life, he leaped into his well and was drowned. His blood stained blade was found on the curbing of the well. It is believed that his mind was temporarily unbalanced.

Resignations Accepted.

WINNIPEG, Man., Dec. 29.—The resignations of Premier Norquay and Treasurer La Riviere, of Manitoba, have been accepted by the lieutenant governor. Dr. Harrison was called to form a new cabinet, which is as follows: President of the council, treasurer and minister of agriculture, Dr. Harrison; attorney general, C. E. Hamilton; minister of public works and commissioner of railways, Hon. D. Wilson; provincial secretary, Hon. Joseph Burke. The fifth member has not yet been announced but it is believed to be Kirkboffer, of Brandon, who takes the portfolio of minister of agriculture, relieving the premier.

Drunken Riotous Mob.

ASHLAND, Wis., Dec. 29.—At Highbridge, eighteen miles from this city, yesterday, a drunken mob made an attack upon the depot. Constable McPhail endeavored to induce one of the most turbulent to go home. The man resisted and the mob attacked the officer. Mr. McPhail backed off, at the same time drawing a revolver, but the crowd advanced and the constable fired, killing Peter Collins. The shooter was at once set upon, and was beaten in a frightful manner, being left for dead where he lay. A posse was dispatched from this place and arrested seven of the leading rioters.

An Old Claim.

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The Weber claim to land in New York city, which turned up yesterday at Dover, N. H., is not a new one. In 1879 it was brought forward by A. Weber, who asserted that he was a lineal descendant of King William, the Fourth, of Holland, who originally owned the land referred to. The American minister at The Hague found it necessary to officially announce the worthlessness of the claim as an agent of the claimants was swindling credulous Americans on the strength of it. The whole affair is a swindle.

The Double Header Trouble.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 29.—General Manager McCrea and other officials of the Pennsylvania company deny all knowledge of the trouble among their employees reported in dispatches from Cleveland. Mr. McCrea says no committee has arranged to meet him next Saturday. The railroads also deny the report except the Cleveland & Pittsburgh men. There is some dissatisfaction among the latter over the double header system, and a paper asking its discontinuance has been extensively signed.

MARSHTON, O., Dec. 29.—Early this morning burglars entered the postoffice and stole the contents of three mail pouches received from Cleveland and Pittsburgh at 4 o'clock a. m. They also took $30 in stamps and money.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

Mrs. Susan M. Frank Passes Away
After an Illness of Several Months.

Mrs. Susan M. Frank, wife of Mr. Charles H. Frank, died this morning at 2 o'clock, at the family residence on Second street, Fifth ward. The sad news was not unexpected. Her parents died some years ago, but her step-mother, who is a sister of Colonel Frank S. Owens, of this city, is still living. The deceased was united in marriage to Mr. Charles H. Frank, of this city, twenty-one years ago.

FROM FOREIGN CLIMES.

CONFLICTING ACCOUNTS OF THE CROWN PRINCE'S HEALTH.

A Feeling of Uneasiness Existing at Berlin Over His Condition—Austrian Civilian Called to Arms—The Czar Determined on War—Other Foreign News.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—People here have long ago given up attempting to reconcile the daily conflicting rumors concerning the state of health of the crown prince of Prussia and the progress of the disease with which he is afflicted. The reports from San Remo seem to be colored by local hopes or fears, or National prejudices. Every statement or rumor which reaches us by the way of France is unfavorable to the prospects of the patient, some even seeming tinged with a malicious pleasure in being able to announce to the world that the prince is doomed to a speedy death. German accounts, as might be expected, are somewhat optimistic in their general tenor, but underlying all reports from such sources are very broad intimations that if the suffering heir is spared to occupy the throne of Germany he will owe his salvation for such an august future to the wisdom and skill of Professor Virchow and other German medical lights who succeeded in keeping in check the English Charlatan, Sir Morell Mackenzie.

The compatriots of the latter scientific gentlemen stand by him stoutly and the correspondents of the English papers all solemnly predict that if the husband of Victoria's eldest daughter should succumb to the dread disease, that is insidiously gnawing at his throat, the world can attribute his untimely taking off to the stupid, not to say malignant, intelligence of the German blockheads calling themselves physicians, with the scientific treatment so promisingly adopted by the famous English specialist.

Sifting carefully the dispatches from San Remo it certainly would seem that the outward appearance of the crown prince is by no means that of a moribund. He walks or drives out every day, his color is good and his step full of energy. From his appearance no one would suspect him to be afflicted with a dangerous malady, but there is anxiety and gloom at Berlin, which scientists here say is but too well justified. San Remo was chosen for the prince's residence solely on account of its mild atmosphere, for his surroundings there are not particularly cheerful. Of course, since his arrival the number of guests at the hotels has been largely increased, but there are fewer visitors than in previous winters. Plentiful traces of the earthquake of last February still remain, whole streets in the old portion of the town yet remaining in ruins though the debris has been carefully removed in the lower quarter.

Dr. Mackenzie must hardly feel encouraged in his efforts to preserve the life of his exalted patient by the abusive and threatening letters he has received daily, most of them seemingly being written by German medical students. The recipient is warned not to rely too much upon the confidence of the prince, and to be upon his guard in case he should revisit Germany, while crossed swords and death's hands form the artistic embellishments with which these cheering epistles are enriched.

Austrian Civilian Called to Duty.
MUNICH, Dec. 29.—All Austrians employed in the factories here and at Augsburg have been ordered to join their regiments at once. Several leading manufacturers have thus lost fully one-half of their men. Several officers of the Austrian reserves employed in Berlin banking houses have also been ordered to report for military duty. The Mauser rifle factory at Oberndorf, Wurtemberg, is filling a rush contract with Turkey for 100,000 rifles. The Cologne Gazette says: "The czar is surrounded by intrigues who will never rest until war is waged to the detriment of Russian for German influence throughout Europe."

Emperor William Reported Dead.
LONDON, Dec. 29.—A semi-panic prevails on the stock exchange, caused by the receipt of a dispatch from Berlin to the effect that Emperor William was dead. Other dispatches from Berlin received by brokers are to the same effect. But later private dispatches were received, which said that there was no truth in the report.

Salisbury's Policy One of Disruption.
LONDON, Dec. 29.—Gladstone, in an address yesterday to a delegation of Kentish Liberals at Dover said that the coming session of parliament does not promise well for the country, and that Salisbury's Irish policy is one of national disruption.

Twenty-five Vessels Wrecked.
ATHENS, Dec. 29.—A fierce hurricane from the west, accompanied by a severe snow storm, prevailed over the whole of Greece Monday night. Twenty-five vessels were driven ashore and wrecked in the Gulf of Patras.

The Snowballing Denounced.
LONDON, Dec. 29.—The Times denounces the snowballing of Mr. Gladstone yesterday at Dover, and says that the position and age of the Liberal leader ought to insure him against such insult.

King John Advancing.
ROME, Dec. 29.—King John, of Abyssinia, is reported to be advancing with an army upon Massowah.

An Important Railway Move.
SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Dec. 29.—Articles of consolidation of the Indianapolis & Wabash Railway company with the Indianapolis, Quincy & Missouri River Railway company, under the name of the Indianapolis, Decatur & Western Railway company, have been filed in the office of the secretary of state. The capital stock of the consolidated company is $8,000,000 in 10,000 shares, and the first board of directors are the following: John D. Probst, of New Jersey; Hiram Hitechock, Henry B. Hammond, Horace L. Hotchkiss, Stephen H. Thayer, Charles C. Allen and Thomas B. Atkins, of New York; John K. Warren, E. F. Leonard and John F. Elder, of Illinois and Robert B. F. Pierce, of Indiana.

A Faithful Old Servant at Rest.
AUGUSTA, Ga., Dec. 29.—Abel Wright, the faithful old negro janitor of St. Paul's church in this city, died Monday, and was buried yesterday afternoon. The funeral was remarkable for the reason that the vestry of St. Paul's, which is composed of the leading citizens of Augusta, and C. G. Goodrich, member of the Georgia Railroad company, were present at the burial.
